Three outstanding speakers will feed Bryan university students and visitors from the Word of God in three services daily at the twenty-sixth annual fall Bible conference Oct. 21-28.

They are Dr. George McNeely, pastor and prophetic teacher, Newark, N. J.; Rev. David E. Hoy, youth worker, Evansville, Ind.; Rev. Ian Hay, missionary, Nigeria, West Africa.

Dr. McNeely has been pastor for more than 50 years of the Elizabeth Avenue Baptist church. The history of the church goes back to 1769, and the official name of the church is the Elizabeth Avenue Baptist Meeting House of the church at Lyons farm.

Born in Ireland, he came to the United States at the age of 12. The guest speaker attended New York university and became curate in the Episcopal church in Elizabeth, N.J., where he lived.

As a prophetic Bible teacher, Dr. McNeely is a good friend of the well-known Dr. Haldeman of the First Baptist church of New York city.

Having graduated from Bryan university in 1950, Rev. Hay has served four years as a missionary with the Sudan Interior mission in Nigeria, where he was born to missionary parents. The missionary also graduated from the graduate school of missions of Columbia Bible college in 1951.

Lee has been doing general missionary work in the Gwari tribe with an emphasis on evangelism and Bible teaching. The work includes going out to unchurched areas and teaching the Christians with the hopes of grounding them in the Word, thus helping them to form a strong church.

He is the husband of the former June Bell, a 1951 Bryan graduate, and the father of two children.

Rev. David E. Hoy, an ordained Southern Baptist minister, will be the third main speaker. He is currently a

THE PRESIDENT'S COLUMN
Theodore C. Mercer

It is my hope that from time to time I may use this column to acquaint the friends of Bryan University more fully with the future workings of the college. It may be that some of would wish to suggest topics you would like to see discussed in these pages. Please feel free to do so.

This time I shall tell you briefly something of the financial achievements and need of the school. First, however, I wish to say a word of praise for those, who in the past three years have injected new life and hope into our school, for in this time the brick work on the outside of the building has been done, the new areas of the library, lobby, business office completed, and the general overall financial picture brightened, specifically by the reduction of the accounts payable (euphemism for accumulated bills one is unable to pay) from $55,000 to $14,000. This achievement is remarkable. But it is not remarkable enough. When I first came to Bryan and began to study the financial picture I was cheered at the evident progress of recent years but also burdened at the thought that we begin this new year handicapped by unpaid bills, chiefly from last year. In late August, after much thought and prayer, I sent each of our creditors, more than a hundred of them, a memo apologizing for the delay in paying the account and saying that the bill would be paid in thirty days. That we have now done, but only by taking the money out of this year’s receipts of tuition, fees, room, and board collected from the students at registration—money needed to pay this year’s bills. This money must be replaced or we will face an even more serious shortage this year. It is absolutely imperative that Bryan get on a pay-as-we-go basis if it is to go forward.

Let me tell you how two groups of our friends have helped us financially in recent days. A pastor who has a radio broadcast in Muskegon, Michigan, was inspired by a visit of the Bryan musical ensemble, to sponsor a “Dollar for Bryan” week, which resulted in $163 for Bryan from the people of that area. How we do thank this kind pastor and the friends in Muskegon.

Only yesterday, two of our students from Beaumont, Texas, brought in a colorful pail with a face painted on it. Named “Mr. Clarence Can O’Pennies,” this container had been placed in the Church of the Open Door in Beaumont the past summer, and some 2,000 pennies were dropped in it for the “Million Penny Drive.” We say a hearty “thank you” to these in Beaumont and to the two students who made this contact.

A few days ago many of you received the final campaign mailing of the “Million Penny Drive” being conducted by the students to raise $10,000 to help finance the construction of the Ironside Memorial Library. I want to commend this effort of the students to you and urge you to send in your contribution right away. If you did not receive this special mailing (some of our friends have asked to receive the Newslette only) you may simply mail your gift to Bryan University for the Million Penny Drive.

Since my previous column, Bryan has opened for its 27th year, with an inspiring convocation on September 13, participated in by members of the Board of Trustees, faculty, students, and local citizens of Dayton and Rhea county. It was a great encouragement to see the number of visitors who were present. Some fourteen persons, representing organizations and groups, brought greetings to the new students and the new administration. You will note elsewhere in this Newslette that we have enrolled 230 students this quarter. This pinpoints the need for an all-out admissions program this year. To this end, we solicit your prayers, your gifts, and your suggestion of names and addresses of prospective students.

We have already announced our enrollment goal for next year as 350. This increase in student body alone would go far in making it possible for the University to operate more efficiently in a financial way.

For many of you who are praying for the work here, be assured that your prayers are being answered. Along with telling you of our needs we want you to know also there are great blessings. We shall be delighted to have any of you share these blessings with us on the campus whenever it is possible.

Typewriting Course added to University Curriculum

The addition of a college typewriting course to Bryan’s curriculum this fall is the first step in the building of a business administration department for the school according to the expressed hope of the new president, Dr. Theodore C. Mercer.

Although the class in typewriting is being offered as an introductory experience, the enrollment of 15 students for the fall quarter promises a worthy beginning.

Miss Rebecca Peck, a graduate of Bryan with previous instructing experience in business subjects, is teaching the course.

She received advanced business training at Detroit Commercial college in Michigan. Three years of college level teaching added to several years personal experience in secretarial service will enable her to provide the students both the technical and experimental phases of the typing course.

Concerning the offering of a business course, Dr. Mercer commented, “The establishment of a reputable department of business to train personnel for secretarial positions is one of the objectives of the new administration and reflects one of the interests of the board of trustees.”

Give Us Your Reaction

Among the matters being considered here on the campus is the possibility of changing the Newslette from a monthly to a bi-monthly publication. The suggestion has been made from time to time that possibly we send too much literature to our friends and that we might do well to reorganize the mailing plan. Consideration is being given to the possibility of sending the Newslette one month to all our mailing list and on alternate months to send the Bryanette, which is the alumni publication, to the alumni and as many other friends as we might do well to reorganize the mailing plan. Dr. Mercer Relates Future Plans at Initial Ceremonies

Three hundred and fifty students was announced as the goal for next year's enrollment by Dr. Theodore C. Mercer, president, in his address at the opening of the school Thursday night, Sept. 13.

Before the new and returning students and a large crowd of visitors from the area, Dr. Mercer outlined his plans for expansion at the college in physical and educational improvements.

"Rome was not built in a day, nor can we expect Bryan to be, but there are many things that must be done," he stated. "The physical is the most obvious, but not the ultimate. The Administration building must be completed, not only for appearance, but for use. A new men's dormitory is necessary and a gymnasium."

The new president related that he hoped to establish a full-fledged teacher education department. He also explained that he would like for Rhea county teachers to be able to get summer work at Bryan as well as evening and Saturday classes.

He stressed the desire for better community relations and the hope that there would be a great increase in students from the local area.

"To borrow a scripture phrase, 'one man layeth a foundation and another buildeth thereon,' and may we also take the admonition, 'Let a man take heed how he buildeth thereon,'" Dr. Mercer said. This was part of his tribute to the men and women who had worked at Bryan before his assumption of presidential duties.

Accompanied by his wife, John Bartlett, dean of men, sang a baritone solo entitled "Jesus Only."

"Toccata (Sonata in A major)" was the piano selection given by Miss Florence Miller, dean of women and assistant professor of music. Miss Barbara Ridder, a junior from Lansing, Ill., was the organist for the occasion.

Many representatives of local civic, educational and religious groups extended greetings to the Bryan family. Dr. H. D. Long, chairman of the board of trustees, presided for the program.

Glenn W. Woodlee represented the board of trustees in the greetings, and Dr. Irving Jensen, head of the Bible department, extended the welcome on behalf of the faculty. Jack Grammar, president of the Christian Service Association, was the individual who represented the student body for the event.

Following the service a tour was conducted especially for the visitors. The tour included the new Ironside library, lobby at the main entrance, business office and the nearly completed student lounge.

The unveiling of a portrait of Dr. H. A. Ironside and a memorial bronze plaque will highlight the dedication of the new Ironside Memorial Library at Bryan Thursday evening, October 25, during the fall Bible conference.

Dr. Ironside was a trustee of the university for 20 years and spoke at Bryan a number of times. As a result of action taken by the trustees in the fall of 1951, it was decided to name the university library in honor of this outstanding Christian leader.

Dr. Theodore C. Mercer, Bryan president, has urged visitors to attend this special event.

COMMONER STAFF REQUEST

The staff of the Commoner, the Bryan University yearbook, has requested that a notice be run in the Newslette to determine how many would be interested in purchasing a 1957 Commoner next spring. The cost of the yearbooks has been running about six or seven dollars. You will be asked to pay only what the book actually costs. If we are able to sell enough copies, we can get a better rate per book.
Bryan Gains First Athletic Director

For the first time in the history of Bryan University, there is a full time physical education and athletic director on the faculty. He is James S. Quinn, a 1956 graduate of Wheaton college.

Jim claims a 6'1" frame with 220 pounds that were helpful in his four years as a tackle for the Wheaton varsity eleven which posted a record of 23 victories, four defeats and one tie during his four campaigns.

The former physical education major related that there will probably be some intercollegiate basketball this year. In addition, cross country and track will continue on the intercollegiate level, he reported, saying that the cross country schedule is currently being set up.

"We are going to play to win, without violating any Christian ethics, of course. We are going to practice like we want to win," coach Quinn stated during the conversation. He illustrated his attitude by saying that you don't pass tests at test time, but by studying previously.

The athletic director, who also will instruct both boys' and girls' physical education classes, said that the intramural program "will continue to be at least as active as it has been and I hope more active. The current program includes volleyball, basketball, softball, touchfootball for boys and speedball for girls.

Mr. Quinn served as assistant coach of track and physical education instructor during his student teaching at West Chicago Community High School.

At Wheaton he was a member of the "W" club, having gained three letters, and the phys ed majors club.

He participated in tours for three years as a member of the Wheaton men's glee club and was in the football Gospel team quartet his senior year. In addition to his vocal interest in music, he plays the cornet.

Another phase of his practical Christian education work included teaching a Sunday school class.
